

---

Contents

|   |           |
|---|-----------|
| Foreword  | xv        |
| Acknowledgements  | xvii      |
| Basics   | 1  |
| 1. Enthusiasm   | 3         |
| 2. 2 Principles of Animation                                      | 4         |
| 3. Consider Anatomy Alone   | 9         |
| 4. Anatomy Continued  | 10        |
| 5. Consider Weight  | 11        |
| 6. Squash and Stretch — I   | 12        |
| 7. Squash and Stretch — II  | 13        |
| 8. Stretch and Squash — III                                       | 14        |
| 9. Line and Silhouette  | 15        |
| 10. Basic Shapes versus Details                                   | 16        |
| 11. Using Basic Shapes as Aid in Difficult Drawings               | 17        |
| 12. Simplify Where Possible                                       | 18        |
| 13. Straights and Curves  | 19        |
| 14. Overlap, Follow-through, and Drag                             | 20        |
| 15. Eyes  | 22        |
| 16. Avoiding Tangent Lines  | 23        |
| 17. Some Simple Rules of Perspective                              | 24        |
| 18. Some Ways to Create Space and Depth                           | 24        |
| 19. Some Principles of Drawing                                    | 26        |
| 20. Great Performance or Just a Drawing?                          | 28        |
| 21. Drawing Calories  | 30        |
| 22. Sketching   | 32        |
| 23. Animation and Sketching                                       | 34        |
| 24. Simplicity for the Sake of Clarity                            | 37        |
| 25. Construction Observations Useful in Animation                 | 38        |
| 26. The Opposing Force  | 40        |
| Gesture  | 43 |
| 27. Anatomy vs. Gesture   | 45        |
| 28. Mental and Physical Preparation                               | 47        |
| 29. Dividing the Body into Units                                  | 48        |
| 30. Dimensional Drawing   | 49        |
| 31. The Value of an Action/Gesture Analysis Study                 | 57        |
| 32. Using a Simple (But Logical) Approach to Drapery              | 59        |
| 33. Drapery — Its Role in Drawing                                 | 61        |
| 34. The Seriousness of Head Sketching/A New Phrase: "Body Syntax" | 63        |
| 35. The Head in Gesture   | 65        |
| 36. From the Living Model to the Living Gesture                   | 69        |
| 37. A Little More on Heads  | 72        |

|  |    |
|--|----|
| 38. Feeling the Pose                                   | 78 |
| 39. The Pose Is an Extreme                             | 79 |
| 40. Pose and Mood                                      | 81 |
| 41. Pose and Mood Plus Timing and Phrasing and Texture | 83 |
| 42. Symbols for Poses                                  | 86 |
| 43. Positive and Negative                              | 91 |
| 44. Silhouette   | 93 |
| 45. P.S. The Metaphysical Side                         | 94 |
| 46. Draw Verbs Not Nouns                               | 94 |
| 47. Osmosis  | 96 |
| 48. Drawing and Caricature                             | 98 |

Seeing

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| 49. What Not to See                                    | 101 |
| 50. A Bit of Introspection                             | 103 |
| 51. It Ain't Easy                                      | 105 |
| 52. A Good First Impression                            | 106 |
| 53. Stick to the Theme                                 | 108 |
| 54. Sometimes I Wonder Why I Spend the Lonely Hours... | 109 |
| 55. Cleanup — General                                  | 111 |
| 56. Cleanup  | 113 |
| 57. Inbetweening                                       | 114 |
| 58. Problems with Drawing in Line                      | 116 |
| 59. Superficial Appearance vs. Creative Portrayal      | 120 |
| 60. Creative Energy                                    | 122 |
| 61. More Meanderings                                   | 125 |
| 62. Those Who Cannot Begin Do Not Finish               | 126 |
| 63. Body Language                                      | 127 |
| 64. Note Taking and Sketching                          | 131 |
| 65. Using the Rules of Perspective                     | 133 |
| 66. Applying the Rules of Perspective                  | 139 |
| 67. Copy the Model...Who Me?                           | 143 |
| 68. Talk to Your Audience — Through Drawing            | 146 |
| 69. Getting at the Root of the Problem                 | 148 |
| 70. Doodling vs. Drawing                               | 150 |
| 71. Purpose in Drawing                                 | 152 |
| 72. When Acting (Drawing) is an Art                    | 155 |

Analysis

|                                      |     |
|--------------------------------------|-----|
| 73. Action Analysis Class I          | 156 |
| 74. Action Analysis Class II         | 161 |
| 75. Using Cylinders                  | 164 |
| 76. Action Analysis — Hands and Feet | 167 |
| 77. Angles, Angles, Angles           | 169 |
| 78. Using Angles                     | 171 |
| 79. Angles and Tension               | 174 |

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| 80. Applying Angles and Tension in Our Drawings                                      | 179 |
| 81. Tennis, Angles, and Essences   | 182 |
| 82. More on the Same   | 185 |
| 83. More on "Essence" Drawing  | 189 |
| 84. Driving Force Behind the Action  | 192 |
| 85. A Drawing Style Appropriate for Animation  | 195 |
| 86. A Drawing Style for Animation, Part II   | 198 |
| 87. Learn to Cheat   | 201 |
| 88. One Picture Worth A Thousand Words?  | 204 |
| 89. Double Vision  | 205 |
| 90. Lazy Lines   | 208 |
| 91. Spot It for Yourself   | 213 |
| 92. Do You Promise to Draw the Action, The Whole Action, and Nothing But the Action? | 218 |
| 93. The Pose — A One-Drawing Story   | 220 |
| 94. My Eye Is in Love  | 221 |
| 95. Become the Director  | 223 |
| 96. Hone Up or Bone Up   | 228 |
| 97. The Illustrated Handout  | 229 |

Creativity

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| 98. Drawing on the Artist Within                | 235 |
| 99. Fine Tuning the Gesture                     | 237 |
| 100. For a Better Gesture, Adverbs              | 239 |
| 101. Omni — on Creativity                | 243 |
| 102. Metamorphosis                              | 245 |
| 103. Mime                                       | 247 |
| 104. True Gesture Drawing                       | 252 |
| 105. A Second Chance to Make a First Impression | 256 |
| 106. A Good Sketch Is Like a Good Joke          | 257 |
| 107. Opposition                                 | 258 |
| 108. Elastic Band Tension                       | 260 |
| 109. Get Out of the Way                         | 263 |
| 110. Play-Acting                                | 265 |
| 111. A Storytelling Drawing                     | 268 |
| 112. Drawing Techniques                         | 271 |
| 113. Step Into It                               | 275 |
| 114. It Could Be That...                        | 279 |
| 115. A First Impression — Your Intended Goal    | 282 |
| 116. Gallery of Class Drawings                  | 285 |
| 117. Think First...                             | 286 |
| 118. Piles of Nuts                              | 288 |
| 119. A Meaningful Assembly                      | 290 |
| 120. The Time has Come, The Walrus Said...      | 293 |
| 121. Clarity                                    | 295 |
| 122. Action or Reaction?                        | 298 |

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Thinking                                       | 305 |
| 123. Be Transformed                                   | 307 |
| 124. Be Relentless                                    | 309 |
| 125. Adjust Your Crystal                              | 313 |
| 126. A Love for Drawing                               | 317 |
| 127. A New Slant on Drawing                           | 319 |
| 128. Think Gesture                                    | 321 |
| 129. Precious Instruments                             | 325 |
| 130. Gesture Drawing, Enthusiasm, and Stuff Like That | 328 |
| 131. Shape — A Multi-Form Drawing Tool                | 333 |
| 132. Deciphering and Defining Gestures                | 338 |
| 133. The Decisive Moment                              | 340 |
| 134. Relationship of Character to Prop                | 343 |
| 135. Drawing  | 348 |
| 136. Words That Help in Drawing                       | 350 |
| 137. A Simple Approach to Drawing                     | 354 |
| 138. Vocalizing                                       | 356 |
| 139. Abstracting the Essence                          | 359 |
| 140. Common vs. Uncommon Gestures                     | 361 |
| 141. A Thinking Person's Art                          | 364 |
| 142. Lines, Lines, Lines                              | 368 |
| 143. Feel, as Well as See, the Gesture                | 373 |
| 144. Savvy Sayin's                                    | 376 |
| 145. The Inner Force                                  | 382 |
| 146. The Power of "mmm"                               | 386 |
| 147. Gestural Symbolism                               | 390 |
| 148. Some Left Over Thoughts                          | 393 |
| 149. The Right Way?                                   | 396 |
| Credits  | 400 |