

Contents

Acknowledgments	vi
Introduction	viii
1 The Elements of Graphic Design	1
The designer's task	1
The dual life of a graphic form	2
Information and communication	3
The audience	4
The graphic signal	6
Signs and their use	6
Denotation and connotation	14
Typography	17
Images	19
Image transformation	22
Graphic support elements	29
Language as a model for graphic design	31
2 The Union of Word and Picture	41
The interaction of word and picture	41
The juxtaposition of type and image	45
Words within images	50
The fusion of type and image	55
Type as environmental image	60
Objective type and image	62
Visual-verbal synergy	64
Type or image alone	67
3 Graphic Space	69
The human factor	69
Form relationships in graphic space	70
Symmetry and asymmetry	74
Modular relationships	80
Multiple-image design	92
Field of Tension	94
Repetition and Rhythm	97
Visual continuity	98
Planes in space	104
Scale and visual hierarchy	108
Motion and implied motion	112
Unity through correspondence	115
4 Graphic Resonance	117
The nature of graphic resonance	117
Typographic resonance	120
Resonance and the Chinese boxes	127
Style as message	130
Support elements generate resonance	140
Resonance as expressive message	144
5 The Design Process	153
Problem definition	153
Information gathering	154
Idea finding	154
Solution finding	159
Implementation	160
Design process: a social-issue poster	162
Design process: an advertising campaign	172
Design process: a textbook format	178
Epilogue	188
Notes	189
Bibliography	191
Picture Credits	193
Index	196